

TEACHING

The Master of Teaching courses are for eligible graduates of a bachelor degree who desire to transition into a teaching career.

Avondale offers two graduate entry teaching courses - the Master of Teaching (Primary) and the Master of Teaching (Secondary). Offered on-campus or via distance education, the courses are designed to produce graduate teachers who are reflective, creative and confident in the classroom, and to equip them with the necessary skills to teach in Christian, independent and state school systems both in Australia and overseas. You are provided with the opportunity to explore and critically analyse a wide range of educational literature and research to examine the application of these findings to professional practice.

Throughout either course, you will engage in practical experience opportunities in a variety of relevant school environments.

Accreditation

The Master of Teaching courses are accredited under Avondale's self-accrediting authority, within the terms of the Australian Qualifications Framework, and are nationally registered with the Tertiary Education Quality and Standards Agency (TEQSA). In 2014 Avondale was granted self-accrediting status by TEQSA.

The courses are also accredited by the NSW Education Standards Authority (NESA).
